

This picture is made up of three photographs, I used a straight line to divide the photo into two areas. To make this picture more harmonious, I kept the right building to connect the two areas. And the final photograph can add some texture to the picture.